

Jena U16 is the winner of the tournament in the U17 category

The German team Science City Jena has two teams in this year's competition, younger boys U16 and older boys U17. And it was the younger ones who were able to outplay their older opponents and win the tournament in Katowice, Poland.

In the end, the key duel for the eventual winners was their first match of the tournament against the hosts from UKS SP 27 Katowice . In the end, the German team won a dramatic and balanced fight with a difference of only 2 points.

In other duels, Jena won more convincingly and thus took the first place in the tournament from Poland.

The hosts also managed the next matches with ease and so the silver remained at home.

The last medalist was finally decided only in the last match of the tournament between the two Slovak teams MBK Karlovka Bratislava and Slávia Trnava . Mainly thanks to a successful second quarter, Bratislava rejoiced at the victory.

In the end, the Czech team Sršni Písek remained without a victory in the tournament.

Final standings of the tournament:

1. Science City Jena U16 (Germany)
2. UKS SP 27 Katowice (Poland)
3. MBK Karlovka Bratislava (Slovakia)
4. Slávia Trnava (Slovakia)
5. Sršni Písek (Czech Republic)

Individual awards went to the following players:

MVP:

Daniel Biel (Science City Jena U16)

All-star team:

Leopold Schmidt (Science City Jena U16)

Kamil Binkiewicz (UKS SP 27 Katowice)

Adam Pukančík (MBK Karlovka Bratislava)

Richard Suchomel (Slávia Trnava)

Tomáš Rybařík (Sršni Písek)

Top scorer of the tournament:

Daniel Biel (Science City Jena U16) - 81 points (20.3 points per game)

On the website you will find all the results, including statistics, as well as a rich photo gallery.

Also visit the video section or our YouTube channel.

20/11/2023

author: Martin Šorf | language: cs