

New website launched - a new feature is the selection of all languages

With the new season we are launching a new website. Surely you'll find out where you have something to look for in no time. For easy page navigation, follow the top menu and headings in the black upper bar.

Since we want to bring the events in the competition to all fans regardless of their language skills, we have prepared the website in the languages of all participating countries. We believe that you will appreciate this and apologize for any imperfections in translations, which are performed automatically by Google translator.

Another novelty will be appreciated especially by fans who do not have Facebook. Photos from all matches will be on this website.

Gradually, we will be introducing more news on the web and adding data to individual categories and tournaments.

Enjoy this season!
